Town Hall extension takes big step forward

Recent weeks have seen some dramatic changes as construction work on Hebden Bridge's new Town Hall extension proceeds apace.

The arrival of the 25-metre tower crane on site has enabled the steel frame for the new public hall to be erected. Further metal framework will be going up shortly, taking the skeleton of the new building towards Hangingroyd Lane. The concrete bases for the floors will also be positioned shortly.

"We have now reached the stage of the build where the broad shape of the new building is beginning to become apparent," says Peter Hirst, chair of Hebden Bridge Community Association. "We're excited to see what will become a set of important new community facilities for the town gradually rising from the ground."

Brian Fletcher, the site manager for Strategic Team Group (STG) says: "It's vital to ensure that the ground work and foundations are properly done for any construction project, but there's always a sense of excitement when we reach the point when the outlines of a new building begin to appear."

The new Town Hall extension is expected to be completed by next Spring, and the Community Association is now actively making plans for a series of launch events for the new building. "We're hoping to organise a wide variety of events, to appeal to all in the community," Peter Hirst says.

Strategic Team Group and the Community Association are also announcing the date of the next hard hat tour of the site. This will be on Saturday December 3rd, with twenty-minute tours commencing at 10am and with the last tour at twelve noon.

The construction work on the new Town Hall extension has been funded partly from support from the European Union for the region's economic development, through the Yorkshire and Humber European Regional Development Fund programme 2007-13. The programme provides investment support to help regions improve their economies and help local businesses, people and communities to improve their prospects.
