Town Hall team choose Yorkshire-based contractors

Hebden Bridge Community Association has chosen the west Yorkshire based construction company Strategic Team Group (STG) for the contract to build the new Town Hall extension.

STG were chosen after a formal tendering exercise, in which six companies were long-listed and three interviewed. Based in Castleford, STG is a £40m business with 230 directly employed staff. It has a track record in a wide range of local construction projects, including a major mill conversion at Rowntree Wharf, York, a new library on the outskirts of Huddersfield and conversion of Menston Hall near Ilkley. STG also operates across the country, and has won contracts to improve railway stations as far afield as Truro and Swansea.

Peter Hirst, Community Association chair, said: "We were impressed by the obvious commitment which STG shows towards the communities where it works, and we believe that they will show themselves to be competent and considerate contractors in Hebden Bridge."

Richard Marshall, STG Operations Manager said: “We are delighted to be playing a part in helping Hebden Bridge acquire some key new public buildings. The Town Hall site is a challenging one for construction, but we will be doing our best to minimise the disturbance to local people during the building process.”

The construction work began last week, and is expected to last for twelve months.
